

Terms and Conditions

This OnExamination website is owned by the BMJ Publishing Group Limited ("BMJ Group").

Use of Our Website

Please read the following Terms and Conditions, which relate to information regarding general use of our websites and the terms and conditions relating to purchases of subscriptions. By using our websites, you are agreeing to these Terms and Conditions whether as a registered user or subscriber. By using our site you are indicating you accept these terms of use and that you agree to abide by them. From time to time we may change these Terms and Conditions, and will post revisions on this website. We recommend that you read these Terms and Conditions prior to using our sites and thereafter regularly review any changes and you are responsible for doing so.

Privacy

Use of the data that you provide us, or which is collected by use on our website, is governed by our Privacy Policy. By using our site you consent to such processing.

Access to the OnExamination Website

We try to ensure that website availability is uninterrupted and that transmissions will be error-free. However, we cannot guarantee that your access will not be suspended or restricted from time to time, including to allow for repairs, maintenance or the introduction of new facilities or services. We of course try to limit the frequency and duration of any suspension or restriction.

Accounts and Passwords

If you have registered or subscribed to use any service within the OnExamination Website, any user identification code or password is personal and non transferable and must be kept confidential and used only by you (unless agreed in writing with the BMJ Group) for the specified term of your subscription or registration period (which may be terminated at the discretion of the BMJ Group). We have the right to take action should this requirement be breached.

Our Products and Services

OnExamination is an online revision website for health professionals. A description of what is included in each OnExamination subscribed service is contained on our website including the period of each subscription. News Headlines and any other service which are currently available without a subscription are also indicated on the website.

The website has not been optimised for use via mobile devices and users wishing to do so should be aware that they may not experience full functionality of the site.

Placing an Order and our Acceptance

When you request an online purchase, the language that we offer to you for the conclusion of this process will be English only.

When submitting your request to purchase any OnExamination service, you will be asked to indicate which products that you wish to subscribe to (and then will be asked to indicate where you live). You will then proceed to another web page which will require you to initiate an account (if you have not already done so), by entering in your email address and choosing a password. You will then proceed to an Order Summary page and you will need to indicate your method of payment and some contact details. Should you be paying online, you will proceed to a secure payment page which is part of Worldpay and you will need to select your payment method, in which case your payment will then be processed by Worldpay. If you are paying by cheque, postal order or international money order, then details of your requirements are set out in the Order Summary. In either case, whether you make the payment online or whether you send a cheque, postal order or international money order to the BMJ Group-, when you submit these you are making an offer to purchase the relevant OnExamination product or service, which we may accept or decline. After you submit your offer, you will receive confirmation that your payment was either successful or unsuccessful.

For online payments, we may at that time allow you to have temporary access online to the OnExamination service that you wish to subscribe to, but this is a gesture of goodwill and does not represent acceptance of your offer. Access will need to be made via the user name and password supplied. Irrespective of an online payment, our contract will not become binding until five working days have elapsed after a successful payment is made online and only if we do not contact you. This is in case any pricing errors have occurred and if so we will contact you. For cheque, postal order or international money orders our contract will become binding upon receipt by the BMJ Group of clear funds and notice of acceptance. Subject to the foregoing, delivery will be deemed to have taken place once the log in details have been sent by us to you.

Please note that if you wish to cancel any subscription that you have purchased after our contract comes into effect, cancellation shall be at our discretion and if accepted may be subject to a cancellation charge. You hereby agree that no cancellation is allowed after these services have started to be supplied. This does not otherwise affect your statutory rights.

OnExamination services are supplied subject to availability and remaining in current circulation. In the event that we are unable to supply any OnExamination services for the agreed term, we will inform you as soon as possible and provide you with a pro rata refund in the event that you have paid for a period for which we cannot comply. We will not however be liable to the full extent permitted by law, for any direct or indirect loss caused as a result of not being able to supply to you within the subscription for all or any of the periods subscribed to.

Prices and Payments

The price that you pay for the OnExamination services you order should be the standard pricing as indicated on the website. These prices are inclusive of all taxes and delivery unless otherwise indicated. They are valid for purchases during the calendar year which they relate to. All subscribers are required to make payment in pounds sterling. Should you be paying from an account outside of the United Kingdom, the exchange rate will be calculated by your bank.

We try to ensure that all of our prices on our website are accurate, however errors may occur. If we discover any errors in the prices of the services that you have ordered, we will inform you as soon as possible and give you the option of recommencing your order at the correct price or cancelling it. If you do not respond to our contact, we will treat the order as cancelled. If you order and we have already processed your payment, you will receive a full refund.

Payments may be made through the methods specified on our Order Summary section of our website. We take all reasonable precautions to keep the details of your order and payment secure. Unless we are negligent however, we cannot be liable for losses caused as a result of unauthorised access to the information provided by you.
